

The Tale of Three Brothers

General Instructions:

This exam has three parts: Part 1 has two questions; Part 2 has two questions and Part 3 has one question.

Death Bridge

Instructions to be begin:

You will carefully read the story about the Tale of three Brothers. Write down the important points from the story in the space provided. It will help you to have your important points to look at while answer the questions in Parts 1 & 2 and for writing your story in Part 3. Reread the story if you need to.

The Tale of Three Brothers

There were once three brothers who were traveling along a lonely, winding road at twilight. In time, the brothers reached a river, too deep to wade through, and too dangerous to swim across. However, these brothers were learned in the magical arts, and so they simply waved their wands, and made a bridge appear across the treacherous water. They were halfway across it, when they found their path blocked by a hooded figure. And Death spoke to them. He was angry that he had been cheated out of three new victims, for travelers usually drowned in the river. But Death was cunning. He pretended to congratulate the three brothers upon their magic and said that each had earned a prize for being clever enough to evade him.

So, the oldest brother, who was a combative man, asked for a wand more powerful than any in existence: a wand that must always win duels for its owner, a wand worthy of a wizard who had conquered Death! So, Death crossed to an elder tree on the banks of the river, fashioned a wand from a branch that hung there, and gave it to the older brother.

Then the second brother, who was an arrogant man, decided that he wanted to humiliate Death still further, and asked for the power to recall others from Death. So, Death picked up a stone from the riverbank and gave it to the second brother and told him that the stone would have the power to bring back the dead.

And then Death asked the third and youngest brother what he would like. The youngest brother was the humblest and also the wisest of the brothers, and he did not trust Death. So, he asked for something that would enable him to go forth from that place without being followed by Death. And Death, most unwillingly, handed over his own Cloak of Invisibility.

Then Death stood aside and allowed the three brothers to continue on their way, and they did so, talking with wonder of the adventure they had had, and admiring Death's gifts. In due course the brothers separated, each for his own destination.

The first brother traveled on for a week or more, and reaching a distant village, sought for a fellow wizard with whom he had a quarrel. Naturally, with the Elder Wand as his weapon, he could not fail to win the duel that followed. Leaving his enemy dead upon the floor, the oldest brother proceeded to an inn, where he boasted loudly of the powerful wand, he had snatched from Death himself, and of how it made him invincible. 'That very night, another wizard crept upon the older brother as he lay wine-sodden, upon his bed. The thief took the wand and, for good measure, slit the oldest brother's throat. And so, Death took the first brother for his own.

Meanwhile, the second brother journeyed to his own home, where he lived alone. Here he took out the stone that had the power to recall the dead, and he turned it thrice in his hand. To his amazement and his delight, the figure of the girl he had once hoped to marry, before her untimely death, appeared at once before him. Yet she was sad and cold, separated from him as by a veil. Though she had returned to the mortal world, she did not truly belong there and suffered. Finally, the second brother, driven mad with hopeless longing, killed himself so as truly to join her. And so, Death took the second brother for his own.

But though Death searched for the third brother for many years, he was never able to find him. It was only when he attained a great age that the youngest brother finally took off the Cloak of Invisibility and gave it to his son. And then he greeted Death as an old friend, and went with him gladly, and, equals, they departed this life.

Part 1:

Read the sentences below carefully, then select four important points that belong in a summary of the passage.

The youngest brother greeted Death as an old friend after getting the Clock of Invisibility to his son.

The three brothers used their knowledge of magical arts to build a bridge in order to cross the river.

The second brother driven mad with hopeless longing for the girl he wanted to marry, killed himself so as truly to join her.

Death pretended to congratulate the three brothers upon their magic and gave them each a gift of their choice for being clever enough to evade him.

The first and the second brother died soon after each has chosen his own destination, without truly enjoying their gifts.

Death searched for the third and youngest brother for many years but could not find him, he was the humblest and wisest of the three brothers and he did not trust death.

1. Write the important points into the timeline to show the events in order.

2. In your own words what is the meaning of the word Cunning in paragraph 1?

Write the sentence from the passage that helps the reader to understand the meaning of cunning.

Part 2:

3. For each of the following indicate with a tick (✓) which statement is best suited to one of the three headings in the table below.

Statement	First significant contribution to the conclusion of the story.	The narrator's point of view.	Theme of the passage.
A. The three brothers each took a different path.
B. Distanced yet sympathetic
C. Being humble gives way to the use of wisdom.

4. Which sentence or phrase from the passage best shows each of the following:

Statement A

---

---

---

Statement B

---

---

---

Statement C

---

---

---

Part 3

In the story, each of the three brothers chose a different gift. Think about how these gifts could help the brothers face the challenge of cheating death and staying alive. The passage ends with the third and youngest brother, greeting death and going with him willingly after giving the invisibility Clock to his son.

5. Write an original story to continue where the passage ended. In your story, be sure to use what you know about the brothers' gifts as you tell how the third brother's son, did his best to follow in his father's footsteps. Use the space below to plan, then write your story.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Language Arts - Performance Task

OWC